Web Traffic Data Collected

Through the use of cookie technology or otherwise, we may track and collect information about your computer and software when you visit our website and client websites. This information can include IP address, domain server, computer type, web browser type, access times and referring website addresses. This data is anonymous information that does not personally identify you. This data assists us to design and arrange web pages and to continually improve those sites to better meet the needs of our clients and prospective clients. We use cookies to improve the quality of our services, improving search results, ad selection and tracking user trends.

We employ cookie technology to store and sometimes track information about website visitors. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but browser settings can usually be changed to prevent the acceptance of cookies.

Use of Web Traffic Data

We may use traffic data to analyze trends, administer websites, track user movement, and gather broad demographic information for aggregate use. We may provide traffic data and/or other aggregate non-personally identifying information to third parties, including our affiliates, business partners and/or clients.

Additional Information

We also may obtain information that you give us voluntarily via e-mail or other direct contact such as use of our online contact form.

Any information that you provide to us voluntarily will be used exclusively to respond to you and will not be shared with any third party.

Your Access to and Control Over Information:

You may opt out of any future contacts from us at any time by contacting us via e-mail or phone numbers listed on our website. You also have the right to contact us to inquire what information we have regarding you, or to revise any information you volunteered to us, correct it, and allow us to delete it, if necessary.
